Sometimes my teachers give me homework. Teachers assign homework to give students more practice on the lessons learned in class. I do my homework and turn it in teacher each day. When I do this, I get better grades, learn more, and make my teachers and parents proud.

When my teacher assigns homework, I will write it in my homework notebook or on an assignment checklist. Sometimes homework assignments are due on different days, so I will write down each assignment's due date.

Sometimes I will have time to start my homework in class. When the teacher gives the class time to work on homework, I will get started right away. Sometimes, I will have to do my homework after school when I get home.

First, I will check my homework notebook, planner, or assignment checklist to see what homework I have to do. I should start with the assignment that is due first to make sure it is done on time. Next, I will get all of the materials I need. Usually I will need the assignment, a pencil, and some paper to do my work. Sometimes, I might need other materials such as a computer or a textbook. Then, I will do the assignment.

After I finish an assignment, I will cross it off in my homework notebook, planner, or assignment checklist. Then, I'll check to see what other homework I have to do. When I am done with all of my homework, I will put my assignments in my folder that I keep in my backpack.

When it is time to turn in my homework, I will take it out of my folder and give it to my teacher.

If I need help with my homework, I can ask my parents, a classmate, or my teacher. I should always try to do my homework, even if it is hard. Practice is how I will learn! When I use my homework notebook, planner, or assignment checklist, complete my assignments, and turn them in, I will learn and get good grades in school!
